Eva worked very effectively with her group while creating the poster. Before the activity began, she used her laptop confidently to research information, selecting reliable resources and organising notes to share with her peers. During group work, she used ICT tools such as shared documents and messaging features to communicate ideas and keep everyone updated. They collaborated respectfully, listening to others' suggestions and helping the group combine their findings into a clear poster. By using technology responsibly and supporting their teammates, Eva contributed to a well-organised and informative final product.
