

Evidence

Harry F worked confidently with his group to create a colourful poster, taking care to respect each member's role. He listened thoughtfully to others' ideas and helped the team make shared decisions about layout and content. By contributing their own suggestions and supporting their peers, they showed strong collaboration skills and helped the group produce a well-organised final poster.

